

Toyota Motor Manufacturing Canada Team Member Tests Positive for COVID-19

MARCH 19, 2020 - On March 18, we were notified by Hamilton Public Health that a Toyota Motor Manufacturing Canada (TMMC, Cambridge – North Plant) team member tested positive for COVID-19. Our thoughts are with our affected employee and their well-being. The employee's last shift worked was March 12. Since then, the individual has been off work, taking action to minimize risk to others. The TMMC health centre immediately contacted public health authorities and followed appropriate protocols. Our affected employee - as well as those identified as having had close contact with the individual - will remain in self-isolation and will not return to work until being cleared by a physician. We have taken the added precaution of deep cleaning and disinfecting all areas in which the employees were working, and will continue to follow the guidance of public health authorities. The health and safety of our team members, business partners and communities is our top priority.
